1. Beginnings: The Blake Family of Andover

Thanks again to the Guest Editor whose work we have enjoyed the last three issues of this Newsletter.

The Blake Family of Andover, Hampshire, England is my special interest within the yDNA study of the Blake family at FT DNA. I only have the one member (two of my four brothers have been tested) and the only matches are quite ancient going back in time and have different surnames. The one individual who does match at 12 markers only (thus not significant for the study) is from Dublin, Ireland. I find it most interesting though to have the two similar results on 12 markers as the first twelve markers for this Blake line are significant to me in that the British Isles would have been under a kilometre of ice during the Last Glacial Maximum 15,000 to 20,000 years ago. These two sets of data belong to a group termed the “deer-hunters” by Ethnoancestry and became BritainsDNA which had results on line until 2018. Since this name has been designated I thought I would take a moment to look at what historically “deer-hunters” refer to in terms of a population.

The Wikipedia.org Hunter-gatherer website has an interesting map speculating on various cultures in the European area about 2000 BC (BC (Before Christ)).

The British Isles is listed as Late Neolithic; corded ware cultures. The glacial ice covering the British Isles at the end of the Last Glacial Maximum

Again the Wikipedia has provided interesting information on Prehistoric British Isles mentioning early evidence of the presence of human occupation at Happisburgh, Norfolk nearly 1 million years ago (stone tools and footprints) and about 400,000 years ago the presence of Neanderthal fossils at Swanscombe, Kent. But mention is made that no human habitation was found between 180,000 to 60,000 years ago at which time it was Neanderthals which had returned to the British Isles. Neanderthals were known to have disappeared/merged with Homo sapiens as some Neanderthal DNA is carried by modern humans. As the glacial cover from the Last Glacial Maximum withdrew from the British Isles Homo sapiens returned to the British Isles at least by 4000 BC when the Neolithic culture can be detected by archaeologists. Since the neolithic period is generally considered to be the influx of farming then the deer-hunters (a hunter-gatherer group) would have been present before 4000 BC. Why do I find that so interesting? The yDNA group to which my brothers belong is from the Palaeolithic which would have preceded the Neolithic and the earliest (post Ice Age) group in the British Isles (Palaeolithic or Old Stone Age). But as I read through this particular article (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Prehistoric Britain) it does support my thought that the hunter gatherers who were found in the British Isles after the Ice Age 13,000 to 15,000 years ago may well have been descendant of the hunter-gatherers who returned to the British Isles when the glaciers retreated. That they would have moved south to warmer/safer areas makes sense as it was the Homo sapiens population that lived in the Ice Refuges in southern/eastern Europe until the ice did retreat.

Does this article have anything to say about the “deer-hunters” specifically? The Mesolithic period followed the Palaeolithic and was a short period when the British Isles was likely unoccupied once again due to extremely cold temperatures. It is suggested thought that by 6000 BC hunter-gatherers were likely covering most of the British Isles including the northern parts of Scotland. No mention of “specific” terms like “deer-hunter” to describe the population.

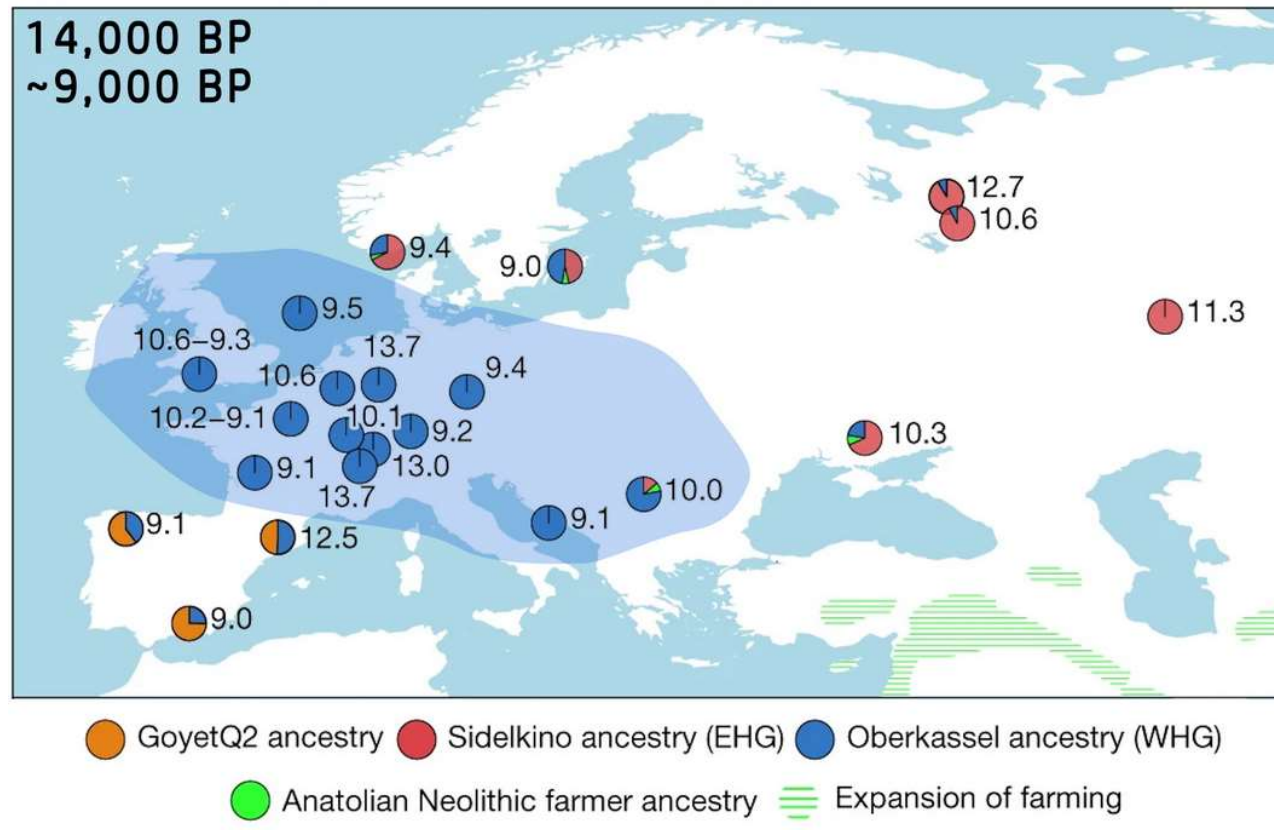

Another rather interesting article: Western Hunter-Gatherer (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Western Hunter-Gatherer) captures the time period of interest above 15,000 – 5000 (BP – Before Present Time). My brothers tested as I-PH151 testing Y700 at FT DNA. Before I look into this article one is left to ponder why do I search so far back in time? There are no surnames in this timeframe; British Isles only came to surnames after William the Conqueror came to southern England in 1066. As a child, my paternal grandfather, Samuel George Blake (born 10 Feb 1875 at Upper Clatford, Hampshire, England and baptized 4 Apr 1875 at Upper Clatford All Saints. He died 22 Oct 1953 in London, Ontario, Canada, emphasized to me (he died when I was just eight years of age) that his family had lived in the Andover, Hampshire area of England forever. He always said it that way and I just retained what he said with regard to the known location of our Blake family. What preceded this discussion was a trip to the London Public Library and the discovery of a Book on the Blake family of Ireland. I think, in retrospect, he was reiterating that his Blake family was from the Andover area of Hampshire not Irish. True to form, yDNA testing does show that the Irish Blake family at Galway is a different haplogroup and I suspect that the book that he saw was talking about this family as members of this family were also found in the London, Ontario area in the 1800s having emigrated from Ireland.

It was one of my older brothers who initiated my thoughts along this line of yDNA and volunteered to be tested. Discovering quite early on in that testing period that his yDNA pointed to Ethnoancestry's Deer-Hunters was quite amazing (mutation I-S185 (I-L161) is generally attributed to this naming of Deer-Hunter by Ethnoancestry). Knowing that the Irish Blake family at Galway were descendant of Richard Caddell (originally from Wales and possibly Norman) the yDNA haplogroup R-FGC39874 which does point to a later arrival in the British Isles. We, my brother, husband and I, were at dinner in London, Ontario (we used to visit him two or three times a year and go out for dinner and traveling about the area as a fun thing to do and then meet again for breakfast and the longer we stayed the more meals we shared! Generally thought it was just two days or so) but I digress, at dinner we started chatting about Grandpa and our memories of him. Then we both remembered Grandpa and the book on the Irish family. It was interesting how differently we remembered though as my brother thought that Grandpa had said this was our family when I remembered he said that this was not our family and that brought us to the idea of yDNA testing just to look at our line. Indeed Grandpa was right, his line may well have lived in the Andover area for thousands of years! Acquiring the surname Blake is interesting as I work my way through early wills from the 1500s in both Berkshire and Hampshire. I would say that this family at Andover had a family lore regarding the Blake family at Calne (which was originally, by my estimation and research, in Berkshire (near Walgrave in the 1300s)). At that time there were already a number of Blake families in Berkshire and wills in the 1500s linked these families not as closely related (English people, by my travels and being with family, tend to think of their close relatives as first cousins and second cousins and beyond distant cousins) but the sharing of information, visiting, references all point towards some sort of relationship between the Blake family at Andover and the Blake family in Berkshire (later this line is in Calne, Wiltshire). It is this possibly substantiated information that resulted in the Andover Blake family thinking that they were related to the Calne Blake family but I believe it is through a daughter of the Blake family in Walgrave, Berkshire marrying an individual possibly named John and using the Blake surname since John probably did not have a surname. He was possibly living at Knights Enham farming a small plot of land likely freehold where the Blake family is found in the late 1400s and early 1500s records. Just to throw a wrench into the works, there was a Richard Blake from Ireland who came to Salisbury, Wiltshire and listed in the 1330s-1550s Immigrants Database (created by The National Archives UK; <https://www.englishimmigrants.com/>). This Richard Blake is mentioned on the Assessment Roll for Wiltshire 10 Jul 1440. Given the distance from Salisbury to Andover, 26 kilometres, it seemed like a small world when I found that. Coincidentally the line that I trace back takes me to a Robert Blake likely born between 1430-1450 who leaves his will in 1521 living at Enham as an elderly man with his eldest son named Richard. However, I have stayed with my thoughts that this is a line that likely was already in the Andover area and this Robert could perhaps have been returning in that time period from Ireland as travel between the countries particularly in these Norman times was quite common; also Robert and Richard are common Blake names in this time frame). But the need to write a book has become paramount in my mind to collect up all of this information for future Blake researchers since I am moving towards 79 years of age now.

Returning once again to the Western Hunter-Gatherers Wikipedia page which also has an interesting map:

Noting the time frame in the left uppermost corner just following the last Glacial Maximum as one can see the various groups moving out of the Ice Refuges of the Last Glacial Maximum period and into Europe and towards the East as well. Principally Western Hunter Gatherers (Oberkassel ancestry) are seen in the British Isles with a time frame of 10,600 to 9,300 BP (Before Present). At this time there is still thought to be an ice bridge between the Continent of Europe and the British Isles and Doggerland did not disappear totally until the 6,000 (BP) time period. Extracted DNA studies do show the presence of I2a which is the group where our line was assigned and as this article mentions assigned to the Villabruna Cluster. Further definition brings up I2a1 and namely I-M423 where we belong and remains have been found in Western European Hunter – Gatherers dating from 10,000 to 8,000 years BP*. Further testing did bring us to the L.161.1 or I-S185 dubbed the deer-hunters by Ethnoancestry.

This has led me onwards into DNA research since 2006 and continues to fascinate me and writing a book on the Blake Family of Andover is a good next step.

3. Andover, Hampshire, England, Parish Registers - Baptisms

Andover, Hampshire, England has often been said to be the “home of the Blakes” when I have been writing to people in Hampshire through the years. I would say that Calne, Wiltshire perhaps has a stronger hold on that particular title although there are a number of other areas in England where the Blake family has been for centuries. When I decided to transcribe the Parish Registers of Andover I was surprised to find that yes there are a number of Blake entries but there are far more Blake entries in Parish Registers in other parts of England as mentioned. In this issue, I will publish the baptisms for Blake in the Parish Registers. These records are taken from fiche which have scans of the original parish registers. The registers for baptisms begin in 1588 and have provided me with a lot of details on the Blake family in Andover in the late 1500s and into the 1600s/1700s. Eventually I hope to complete my project of transcribing these Parish Registers for St Marys Andover beyond the early to mid 1700s.

Baptismal Registers commenced in 1588 and I will publish these transcriptions for Andover.

4. Andover, Hampshire, England Parish Registers - marriages

I will publish the marriages for Blake in the Parish Registers of St Marys Andover. These records are taken from fiche which have scans of the original parish registers. The registers for marriages begin in 1587 and have provided me with a lot of details on the Blake family in Andover in the late 1500s and into the 1600s/1700s. Eventually I hope to complete my project of transcribing these Parish Registers for St Marys Andover beyond the early to mid 1700s.

Marriage Registers commenced in 1587
