1. Blake Family of Andover, Hampshire, England

My time over the last three months has been spent extracting information from the autosomal DNA tests of myself and my four siblings (in total I had seven siblings) who tested at various companies including Family Tree DNA, Ancestry, 23 and Me, My Heritage and Living DNA as well as Ethnoancestry in its time and BritainsDNA also in its time. The tests at Ethnoancestry and Britains DNA were y chromosome only and of interest to the Blake Family of Andover principally whereas the autosomal Blake tests do include all of my family lines and as I finally moved to Living DNA the last few weeks I am accomplishing what I could see in the other test companies results the endogamy in my Knight/Arnold/Butt/Ellis lines (my great grandfather Edward Blake married Maria Jane Knight in 1870 at Upper Clatford, Hampshire, England (just south of Andover) and I am descendant of their third child (second son, Samuel George Blake).

Although the overall tone of this newsletter is based primarily on the Blake families in the British Isles and their descendants around the world, my own interest remains the Blake family of Andover, Hampshire, England who can be located in this area back into the 1300s bearing the surname Blake. As I continued my research into my Blake family an interesting supposition arose concerning the acquisition of the surname Blake once I discovered by testing at Ethnoancestry and Britains DNA, that my grandfather's yDNA line, as passed to his only son Ernest Edward George Blake born at Eastleigh Hampshire in 1904, was an ancient Western Hunter Gatherer line quite ancient to the British Isles. Amongst his matches are two also ancient lines not carrying the Blake surname but with sufficient markers in his haplogroup which is remarkable with the one family living in the Basingstoke area back into the genealogically traceable time period coincidental with the appearance of the Blake family of Andover at a similar time. Wills of the 1500 gave some sort of a relationship/friendship between the Blake family found around Speen, Berkshire and the Blake family at Andover. Now one would wonder what would create this friendship in this time frame of two individuals with the same surname? One is left with the usual – marriage of a female Blake to an un-surnamed male in the early 1300s (not uncommon in this time period in England) when the surname Blake does appear in the Andover area although these references continue to elude me I know I have them somewhere in my collection of old documents and will continue to search that out. In the meantime, this Blake family at Speen does appear to move towards the Wiltshire/Hungerford area and looking at records prior to the 1500s in the Berkshire one discovers a Richard le Blak at Wantage (near Windsor). I again purpose that this Richard was the Richard le Blak of Rouen who received the right to set up a market in England in 1274. The Pipe Rolls of 1301 place a Richard le Blak and his family in the Wantage parochial area which allowed my brain to continue with thoughts and possibilities. That is what the human brain is always good at and we mustn't lose that with this idea of Artificial Intelligence writing for us. Utilize all the new ideas but retain control of what is printed – if AI can not find it they make it up and even create false references. One must be cautious with any new item really that has been our way in the past.

For a number of the members of this list the Blak family of Rouen, Normandy is very interesting. A number of individuals who have tested carry a signature that appears to point to this area of France simply because of the haplogroup (I1). Some of the founding families in this area are of Viking origin including William of Normandy who crossed the Channel and defeated the armies of King Harold in 1066 (all of which is known to history). In the early 1300s we are two hundred years past this happening and the Norman families that came to England are definitely blending into the local tapestry by marriages of both sons and daughters into existing families. The Emigrants Database 1330 to 1550 lists over 30 Blake families that came during this time interval to the British Isles primarily from the Continent (a lot from The Netherlands) but also from Ireland which has always rather interested me when I found that but I have provided details on the Irish emigrants to England in this time period in earlier issues of this Newsletter and will not dwell on that at this time. It is the history of the Blake lines in England prior to 1330 that are most interesting as there were already records of various Blake males being in England having a similar signature which tends to point to this Normandy area of France.

Learning about the le Blak family of Normandy has not been very fruitful but I did spend two years writing the Siderfin books and before that taking care of my husband for about ten years after he first took ill in 2011 which gradually kept me from my pursuits. However, returning now I would like to get into more French records and My Heritage has provided another treasure of early French material which I shall delve into but invite anyone else looking at this particular haplogroup to write it up and send it in. It is fascinating to learn so much about one's potential ancestors.

As I do mention in these newsletters I am always eager to acquire stories on everyone's Blake families if they want to publish them in this newsletter. So do feel that you can submit them to me (kippeeb@rogers.com) as the newsletter does get read and if you wished I can also publish them in my blog under your name and they would get even more exposure.

There are two new members in the Blake yDNA Study. A few of the groups have independent researchers who manage them and likely you will have heard from them if you are matching them. I do not generally write to anyone as I am likely unable to aid you unless you are in one of their groups or in the group from which my Blake line descends. To me this is a collection period during which vast amounts of data are going to get organized and the methodology continues to develop as to just how we will organize this data. FT DNA does a great job with their current (and it is fairly new) y-DNA tree assigning haplogroups way into the past and up to the present to match the results that have been obtained by testing the samples. I can add very little to that other than try and organize the kits of people in this project into lines that suit the results of their data. This may not happen quickly as time needs to pass with each result whilst I look at the available data. All individuals are now assigned. I always welcome any comments from people on the assigning to a particular group. R-M269 is a particularly large group within the study and it has been broken down by an earlier researcher. I have somewhat retained the structure that Barrie Blake had because he often communicated with individuals within the group. But I do welcome any new information that might help to better refine some of these groups.

There are two new Big Y tests so will have a look at them. If I do not and you want to bring it to my attention please do so and thank you. I will attempt to look at the items that FT DNA sends to me but I do have seven projects and that is a lot of email.

There is a new Y-700 in the East Anglia group (E: R-M12/R-M198) and it is matching an earlier Y-700 test; there is also another Y-700 test that does not match these two members of the group.

3. Andover, Hampshire, England, Parish Registers - Baptisms

Andover, Hampshire, England has often been said to be the “home of the Blakes” when I have been writing to people in Hampshire through the years. I would say that Calne, Wiltshire perhaps has a stronger hold on that particular title (the Blake family at Andover acquired the surname Blake sometime in the late 1200s/early 1300s and I am still determining that) although there are a number of other areas in England where the Blake family has also been for centuries. When I decided to transcribe the Parish Registers of Andover I was surprised to find that yes there are a number of Blake entries but there are far more Blake entries in Parish Registers in other parts of England as mentioned. In this issue, I will publish the baptisms for Blake and others in the Parish Registers. These records are taken from fiche which have scans of the original parish registers. The registers for baptisms begin in 1588 and have provided me with a lot of details on the Blake family in Andover in the late 1500s and into the 1600s/1700s. Eventually I may complete my project of transcribing these Parish Registers for St Marys Andover beyond the early to mid 1700s (but the online database at Find My Past is excellent as it provides the scans which you can enlarge!).

Baptismal Registers commenced in 1588 and I will publish these transcriptions for Andover.

4. Andover, Hampshire, England Parish Registers burials

I will publish the burials for Blake and others in the Parish Registers of St Marys Andover. These records are taken from fiche which have scans of the original parish registers. Eventually perhaps I will complete my project of transcribing these Parish Registers for St Marys Andover beyond the early to mid 1700s.

Burial Registers commenced in 1586 (Old Style) (1586/87 New Style)
