<http://www.bridgwatermuseum.org.uk/>

The Blake Museum has given me permission to put these charts in the newsletter so I will continue with some of these Blake family lines.

Many of the Blake families with roots in the New England states are tracing back to William Blake of Dorchester Massachusetts. A number of Blake genealogists have written up their studies on these many Blake lines coming down from William Blake and Agnes (B[or] or a[nd], Thorne?) Blake. One particular paper published in The American Genealogist Volume 74, Issue 1, 15-28, 1999, and entitled “Two Somerby Frauds or ‘Placing the Flesh on the Wrong Bones’” by Paul C. Reed. In one of his footnotes, “In his [Horatio Gates Somerby] account of the purported ancestry of the immigrant William Blake of Corchester, Massachusetts, Somerby linked three apparently unrelated Blake families. After falsifying the origin of the immigrant, Somerby fabricated earlier fraudulent connections by making Humphrey Blake, ancestor of the Blake family of Over Stowey, Somerset, a brother of the Nicholas Blake of Andover who died in 1547. Somerby then fabricated a parentage for Humphrey and Nicholas, making their father out to be one William Blake, and their mother to be Mary, daughter of Humphrey Coles of C. Somerset. Then he asserted that this William was a son of an earlier William whom Somerby (falsely) connects back into the ancient Blaage alias Blake family who lived at Calne, Wiltshire.” I have written about this fraudulent connection on my blog a number of times. My line descends from the Nicholas Blake of Andover whose father is, I believe, Richard Blake of Enham who left his will dated 12 Apr 1522; his father Robert’s will was dated 16 Dec 1521 (likely also of Enham as he mentions the parish Church there). Nicholas does not mention a brother Humphrey but does indeed mention his family members.

Ancestry DNA is now producing ThruLines as well as DNA Circles (no longer updated). As it turns out, having used these ThruLines quite heavily the last couple of weeks, I am certainly happy with this addition overall. The drawback remains that errors in family trees can now flow through these ThruLines giving me attachments to ancestors that do not bear scrutiny with the actual records. But I can say that overall the addition of ThruLines is a bonus to research bringing together matches that are true and having examined four sets of siblings (my own) ThruLines I am seeing some really good results that are benefitting my research. On the plus side, you can now write to the individuals that are attaching to a particular line and discuss the possibility of working together to clear up the mystery since individuals are matching in order to be there on the ThruLine but the match as shown does not bear scrutiny, in the case of my Blake line, I know the husband of my 2x great grandfather John Blake’s sister Mary. She married William Heath and they had a large family and now in 2019 I match a number of their descendants thus proving the connection. She did not marry anyone else so any attachments to her, with a different spouse, as a proven daughter of Thomas Blake and Sarah (Coleman) Blake are probably inaccurate. However, if your ancestry is going back to that area right around Andover then likely we are matching on another line. But with that slight diversion I return again to William Blake of Dorchester Massachusetts and Paul Reed’s article in The American Genealogist. Fortunately we subscribe to The American Genealogist and can look back at some of these interesting articles written on the Blake family (and in the case of my husband heavily into Kipp-Link research also his families).

I will discuss the parentage of William Blake of Dorchester Massachusetts using records available to me. The publication “Increase Blake of Boston, his Ancestors and Descendants, with a full account of William Blake of Dorchester and his Five Children” was compiled by Francis E Blake (1839 – 1916) and published in 1898 at Boston, Massachusetts. The records had been accumulated by Reverend Charles M Blake. Francis E Blake is likely descendant of James Blake b 30 Apr 1688 at Dorchester Massachusetts and died 4 Dec 1750 also at Dorchester. James and his wife Waitstill Simpson had four children including James Blake b 15 Oct 1716 at Dorchester (died 5 Jan 1803 also at Dorchester). This James married Mary Pinson and they had several children including James Blake b 15 Feb 1740 at Charlestown Massachusetts died 29 Aug 1803 at Boston Massachusetts. This James married Lydia Dana and they had a number of children including Pynson Blake who married Sarah Dana and their son was Francis Everett Blake (1839-1916). The James Blake b 1688 is likely the son of James b 27 Apr 1642 at Pitminster Somerset and son of the emigrant William Blake and his wife Agnis (Band or Bond, Thorne?) Blake. I have not proven this line myself and have copied it from information found online and it serves only to show that Francis E Blake who compiled the book was likely related to the William Blake family of Dorchester Massachusetts. The Reverend Charles M Blake is said to be descendant of Edward Blake youngest son of the emigrant William Blake but no detailed genealogy (Francis E Blake mentions on page 36 of his publication that John Blake (b 17 Jul 1720 and married to Ann Richardson) was his ancestor and John likely the son of Ebenezer (b 28 Sep 1709) married to Petronella Peck, with the father of Ebenezer as Jonathan b 5 Jul 1672 Boston and son of Edward Blake and Patience Pope) is available to prove that line. He, however, went back to Somerset and met with another John Blake there who shared material with him for the Blake family of Pitminster. The actual descent of these two gentleman is not pertinent to the story. I wish to look back from William Blake of Dorchester Massachusetts to England and the charts which have been made available by the Blake Museum.

At some point during the late 1800s both Francis E Blake and the Reverend Charles M Blake appeared to have met with a John Blake in Somerset. When I asked who had created this particular Blake Chart I did not learn a particular name. I am quite curious if the individual with whom they met/corresponded did indeed also create this chart. It is basically in the same handwriting. It is in the style of writing of the late 1800s into the 1900s. It appears to have been created in one time period.

Chart 1 is the most interesting with regard to this William Blake (this is a slightly cropped image).

Looking at this cropped version you can readily see a line coming down from Humphrey Blake third from the top and in the second column from the right. This line continues down to John Blake and then to William Blake of Pitmister and finally down once again to his son William Blake who eventually emigrates to the Massachusetts Colony.

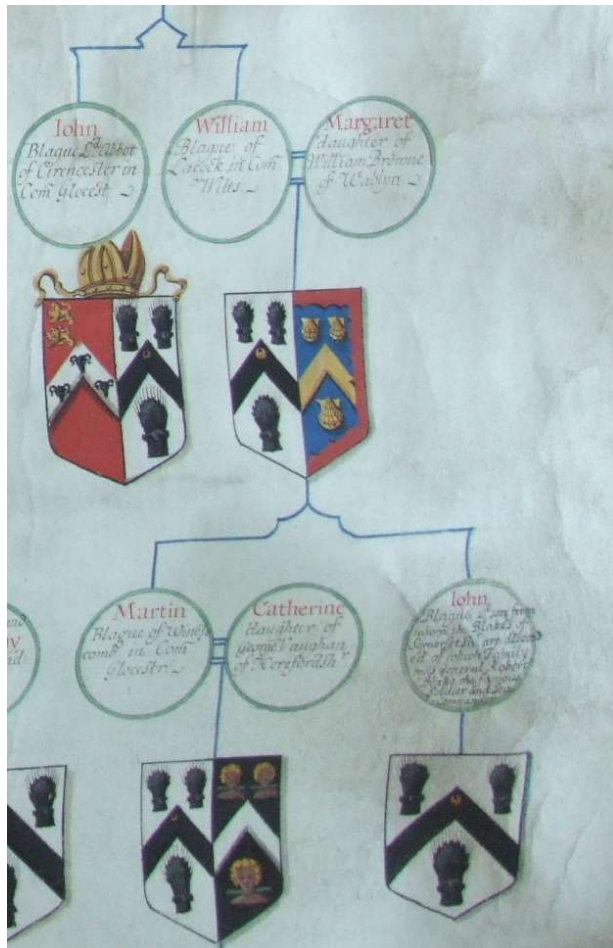

Cropping it once again just to make it more useful to the discussion, we have:

The chart is a complex genealogical record with multiple columns and rows. It includes names such as John Blake, William Blake, Anne Blake, and various other family members across several generations. Dates and locations are noted for many individuals. A blue arrow points to the entry for William Blake of Pitminster, who is noted as marrying in Pitminster but dying in Dorchester, Massachusetts Colony.

William Blake of Pitminster married to Agnis Band, widow, is shown as being of Pitminster and marrying there but dying in Dorchester Massachusetts Colony. The children of this couple are listed (chart preceding) as John, Anne, William, Edward and James (and that corresponds to the children as they were known in the Massachusetts Colony. I will not refer to the children of this couple at all as my interest is in looking back to Somerset where William and Agnis Blake are said to have emigrated from in the 1630s. I did check Family Search to see if the images for the Pitminster Parish Registers are online yet but they can not be viewed. I suspect they may be up but not yet available. That means I have to rely on these various researchers for the records for Pitminster to tentatively look at this Blake line.

The Chart lists the parents of William Blake of Pitminster (baptized 10 Jul 1594) as William Blake and Anne (unknown). Another site unfortunately now gone from the internet had been prepared by a local (Somerset) researcher and was quite interesting. Although I did not agree with all of the links, the early work I was informed had been done in the Registry Office and certainly there are many many records in the chart which was thus created (I copied it and made some changes that corrected inconsistencies with the online version). The birth of William Blake (father of the emigrant) was recorded as circa 1559 Over Stowey, Somerset. He was buried 13 Jun 1642 at Pitminster Somerset with his wife Anne being buried there 14 Aug 1644. The father of this William was said to be John Blake (the elder) and he appears to have had a younger brother named John Blake (the younger) both of whom had large families. The wife of John Blake the elder was named Johan (no surname known) and she was buried 27 Jun 1595 at Over Stowey. John Blake the younger married Christian Jugg 18 Aug 1558 at Over Stowey. The mother of both these men was said to have died in 1585 at Over Stowey (no burial date given). It would seem that it is accurate that there were two John Blake, sons in this family. The father of these two John Blake (elder and younger) was listed as Humphrey Blake married to Agnis (unknown) and no marriage date known (this would have preceded the parish registers anyway as the eldest son was born circa 1521). Humphrey Blake was said to have been born circa 1499 at Bishops Lydeard, Somerset and buried 28 Dec 1558 at Over Stowey. These two record sets do not agree on the name of the wife of Humphrey – the chart above has Anne and the website had Agnis. The online website did not take Humphrey further back. The Chart above does and that agrees with a Chart which is held by the Wiltshire and Swindon Record Office for the Blake family created by the College of Arms in 1690. A small crop is available below:

This is a large chart about 12 feet long and 4 feet wide and images can be purchased from the Wiltshire and Swindon Record Office.

In the bottom right corner of the small crop a plain Blake crest can be viewed and above that in a green circle the name John Blague appears with the included information “2nd son from whom the Blakes of Somersetshire are descended of which Family was General Robert Blake the famous Soldier and Sea Commander.” Just for information, as mentioned this chart was produced by the College of Arms (London, England) initially in 1690 with additions (early 1700s). There is a caption in the lower left of this large chart which reads: “This Descent of Blake excepting the latter part of the Gloucestershire Line which was Supplied from other Authentick matters of Record exhibited for that purpose is Extracted out of the Visitation Books hereafter mentioned: 1stly, Mr. Vincents Wilts marked No 147 fol 24b 25a 26a, Secondly, Wiltshire Anno 1623 marked C22 fol 107 b, Thirdly, One of the Books lately the Earl of Anglisey’s marked No 123 fol 56a, Fourthly, Hantshire marked C19 fol 85a, Fifthly, the Certificate Book marked I23 fol 37a, Sixthly, the Visitation of Surrey made (by Sir Edward Bysse Kn late Clarenceux King of Arms) Anno 1662 fol 77b and Seventhly, the Visitation of the City of London begun by Sir Henry S George Kn Clarenceux Anno 1687.” I find the Visitation Books to be a valuable resource but one must use them with some caution as children are left off in many cases but the actual tree does bear looking at.

Continuing to look at this cropped portion of the Blake Pedigree Chart held by the Swindon and Wiltshire Record Office, John is said to have a brother Martin Blague of Winchcombe in the County of Glostershire. They are both said to be the sons of William Blague of Lacock in County Wiltshire. William being married to Margaret the daughter of William Browne of Wablyn. William continues to trace back with his father as David Blague (son and heir) married to Joane daughter of (unknown) Mallet. The father of this David named as John Blague gentlemen and second son married to Margaret daughter of Dyncham/Dinham/Denham. This John said to be a son of Robert Blague alias Blaake of Quemberford in County Wiltshire Esquire married to Avice daughter of John Wallop of Farley in County Southampton Esquire. A caption appears on this chart which states: John Blake (son of Robert) undermentioned was 49 years old and upwards 14 Ed IV [1474] as by an Inquisition post mortem ... Records in the ... after the death of Avice his mother She deceased 29 October 13 Henry VI [1434] does appear. The parchment is folded in this area and very difficult to read from the scan. Looking at one piece of information available to us I have now included the transcription of the will of John Blake (son of Robert Blake and Avis (Wallop) Blake).

We know that John is 40 years or more old when his mother's estate was examined under Inquisition Post Mortem circa 1474 so he was born circa 1434 or earlier. In 1504 he would have been at least 70 years old. John was married twice and he did not leave any male heirs carrying the Blake surname. Part of the fascination for me in all of this aside from information for my one name study of the Blake family is that he lived at the time that the father of Nicholas Blake at Enham lived. Living at Nether Wallop he was only seven miles south west of Andover and we passed through the area of the Wallops on our way to Upper Clatford (1 mile south of Andover or in truth just on the opposite side of the highway these days). There is Nether Wallop and one mile to the north west is Middle Wallop and two miles to the north west is Over Wallop. Then six miles to the north east is Goodworth Clatford and also Upper Clatford which are two continuous villages - you leave the one as you enter the other. As we drove these lanes I could imagine my great grandfather walking from his home to work each day as he did all of his life. Looking at the picture of him from 1898 I can see from whom I inherited my strabismus (lazy eye syndrome) for there it is forever captured in picture the one eye wandering about on its own whilst the other is fixed on you the viewer. Inherited by me from my father. My grandfather did not have strabismus but did pass it on to his son.

His brother Robert acquires Penhills by this will (although not mentioned except in the line where it was said that Richard Dauntsey would inherit the properties in Southampton and Wiltshire with some exceptions and this was one of the exceptions) and it stays with this family up into the reign of Charles I when it was destroyed by the Royalists. A smaller manor was built from the original stones at Pinhills and the Blake family continued to live there into the 1700s.

This family can trace back on paper to the Blake family that is on the 1286 subsidy for Wiltshire and on the Pedigree Chart which is held by the Swindon Wiltshire Record Office. This rather large document (12 feet long by 4 feet wide) was commissioned by the Blake family in London, England to record their family line and was produced using primarily the Visitations but also other documents which I have not yet been able to determine. The College of Arms holds the original material for this chart and one day I will investigate the cost of receiving copies of the documents used. The College of Arms is located near St Paul's Cathedral in London just up from the London Millennium Footbridge. Something that should not be missed when visiting London is crossing on foot all of these bridges and wandering down both sides of the Thames River. The most we ever did was 18,000 steps per day and that took us from our hotel just south of Waterloo Station up into London and along the Thames to St Pauls Cathedral and back across the Thames and down into Bermondsey and then back to our hotel. A wonderful walk and we took about ten hours in total with lots of interesting stops along the way. You can take the Underground and it is a must to go to Kew, the Museums, Greenwich but to be in the City of London or Westminster the best way is to go on foot.

The Blake Pedigree Chart does have a male descendant for John Blake (son of Robert Blake and Avis Wallop). He is named David on the chart and was the son of his first wife Margaret Dyncham/Dinham/Denham. David married Joane Mallet and they had two children John Blake, Abbot of Cirencester, Gloucester and William who married Margaret Browne of Wablyn. William and Margaret had two sons Martin who married Catherine Vaughan of Herefordshire and John who is said to be the ancestor of the Somerset Blake family and that Lord High Admiral Robert Blake was one of his descendants. Why does John not mention this line? Possibly because he has already inherited and a will was really meant to organize what had to be done with property after death, it wasn't actually there to mention all of one's children/grandchildren. It is a gift when they do!

Robert Blake and Avis Wallop had seven children according to the Visitation. Their son Robert married Margaret Inglefield and their two children Roger and Anne married into the Baynard family. Roger married Mary Baynard. Roger and Mary are said to have a son William Blake of Eastontown who married Avice Ripley it is this William that I have been most interested in from the viewpoint of my own family at Andover/Upper Clatford. I am not entirely convinced that he is a son of Roger Blake and Mary Baynard. Roger only mentions his eldest son and his youngest daughter in his will however. The children of Robert Blake and Avis Wallop on the Visitation (Wiltshire Visitation Pedigrees 1623):

Gilbertus, Alexander, Robt, Elizabeth, Alice, Joane, John

Gilbert and Alexander both died without heirs. This visitation principally looks at Robert Blake descendants. Henry Blake is the individual living in 1623 at Pennells and just to place this manor it is to the WSW of Calne about 1 mile. That means it is about 29 miles from Nether Wallop (where John was to be buried) to Calne. John doesn't say in his will where he is located when he is writing his will.

John does mention his nephew Roger (son of his brother Robert although not as nephew but he is). He does mention his servants Robert Blake yeoman and John Blake (currently his servant). Servant could mean a number of things I suspect in those days. They could have been in training with him.

Wallop is the area in which John's mother Avis Wallop lived. In the Post Mortem following her death in 1434 National Archives C 140/48/6, the land that was feoffed to her and her daughter by her first husband was mentioned as well as John Blake her son being 40 years of age or more. Reading through this document could be quite interesting (I do have a copy and will eventually transcribe it) but the Inquisition Post Mortem for John might add more details for the Blake family.

Another interesting document for this family F3/Box 1/283 1506 and the contents: Grant from Henry VII to Philip Baynard of the wardship of Richard Dautesey son and heir of John Dautesey, deceased and kinsman and heir of John Blake, deceased. 28 Nov 22 Henry VII (1506).

My thoughts on all of this with respect to the Pedigree Charts mentioned above, I would love to know who created the chart held by the Blake Museum at Bridgwater. Knowing that, would, I think assist greatly with determining a paper trail for the Blake family found in Dorchester Massachusetts and descended from the emigrant William Blake and his wife Agnis. We really do need to have people test in the Blake line with known ancestry further back in Somerset.

- 2. Blake Surname Study – Progress: One Name Blake Study at the Guild of One-name Studies was originally undertaken by another researcher. In 2011, I became the researcher for the Blake-one-name Study at the Guild. There was already a pre-existing yDNA project run by Bill Bleak and he continues as the main administrator of the project. As can be seen below only 16 members of the study have completed a Big Y (SNPs testing for deep clade determination) making it virtually impossible to do more than has been done with some of the groups.

Project Statistics

Total Members	184
Big Y	20
Combined GEDCOMs Uploaded	12
Paternal Ancestor Information	126
Predicted Y-DNA Haplogroups	25
Y-DNA12	106
Y-DNA25	89
Y-DNA37	86
Y-DNA67	59
Y-DNA111	32

The task of managing these groups is large and I will gradually work away at converting them to the new standard of placing individuals by their deep haplogroup testing. I would recommend that all members join the relevant haplogroup project to learn more about your haplogroup.

That being said, I have begun the task of conversion beginning with what I knew best; namely, my own line tested by my brothers. The I2 lines in the project are ancient to the British Isles probably arriving just as the ice sheets were retreating. More people belonging to the project in these particular lines would be most helpful.

This has changed very little in the past three months. I am finding it difficult to work with the R1b groups. I do not like to upset the original classification but will continue to study how I could modify these groupings. Any suggestions greatly welcomed.

3. Blake autosomal DNA Study at FT DNA (Family Finder)

In some cases these are large matches and in other cases relatively small but that is the way with the inheritance of autosomal DNA. With each generation chunks of autosomal DNA can either be broken into smaller units or passed as a large chunk relatively intact. It is a purely random event. Due to privacy concerns it is not possible to produce a chart of the members who do have matches with other members of the group but each member is able to check that for themselves in their account. What would be helpful is adding a family tree to your account thus making it much more possible to find matching autosomal DNA cousins in your research.

4. Andover, Hampshire, England Parish Registers (Baptisms – set 4)

Andover, Hampshire, England has often been said to be the “home of the Blakes” when I have been writing to people in Hampshire through the years. I would say that Calne, Wiltshire perhaps has a stronger hold on that particular title although there are a number of other areas in England where the Blake family has been for centuries. When I decided to transcribe the Parish Registers of Andover I was surprised to find that yes there are a number of Blake entries but there are far more Blake entries in Parish Registers in other parts of England as mentioned. In this issue, I will publish the baptisms for Blake in the Parish Registers. These records are taken from fiche which have scans of the original parish registers. The registers for baptisms begin in 1588 and have provided me with a lot of details on the Blake family in Andover in the late 1500s and into the 1600s/1700s. Eventually I hope to complete my project of transcribing these Parish Registers for St Marys Andover beyond the early to mid 1700s.

Baptismal Registers commenced in 1588 and I will start publishing these transcriptions for Andover.
