- 1. Pincombe Charts, original One-Name Study at the Guild of One-Name Studies

As mentioned in the last issue of the Pincombe-Pinkham Newsletter, I will continue to publish one chart from the original study by Dr Richard Pinkham and Galen Pinkham. In total there are 14 charts. I am slowly entering these charts into Legacy and adding in data from the original parish registers. I do not always agree with these charts but feel that this is an opportunity to share the charts with the members of this study and I will perhaps get some feedback on the different charts helping me to revise them. The chart in this issue is labelled North and South Molton. This particular chart includes the known Pincombe family found on the Visitation of Devon 1620. The name of the individual at the top of this Visitation is listed solely as (unknown) Pyncombe and he is said to have come to North Molton with Lord de la Zouch around the beginning of the reign of King Henry VII (22 Aug 1485 – 21 Apr 1509). It is known that John la Zouche, 7th Baron Zouche, 8th Baron St Maur was with Richard III at the Battle of Bosworth and for that he suffered attainder and forfeiture of much of his property. In the history of John Baron Zouche there is no mention of his being at North Molton but given the remote nature of North

Devon possibly he came there with his loyal followers immediately after the Battle of Bosworth. He was pardoned in 1486 and perhaps returned then to the estates he was permitted to retain at that time. Definitely though the Pincombe family at North Molton does appear there from this point onward.

Again I do have some problems with this chart although I am in agreement with Thomas Pyncombe being the son of (unknown) Pyncombe and I believe that Johane Pencombe whose will was transcribed in Volume 1, Issue 2 was his wife. Their children were well documented by her and included William Pyncombe who married Emotte Snowe and they lived at East Buckland. Their son Richard is listed on this chart but no family has been attributed to him. The will of William Pyncombe (married to Emotte Snowe) does provide the linking of this Richard to the Richard Pincombe found at Bishops Nympton and my ancestor. However, I have decided to share these charts with the members of the group and welcome any feedback.

3. Autosomal DNA Study

The Pincombe Autosomal Study now includes twelve individuals and all of them are descendant of Robert Pincombe and Elizabeth Rowcliffe. They were married 7 Jun 1803 at Bishops Nympton, Devon. In total there is sharing of common DNA by different members on Chromosomes 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. The ideal state is that you would be sharing different sections of chromosomes with different cousins permitting you to construct a personal chromosome chart showing sections of chromosomes inherited from different ancestors. These twelve individuals are on three different sites and ideally to make use of these results you need to be on GedMatch although FT DNA and 23 and Me do provide a chromosome browser permitting that match to be studied within the particular site.

Average Estimated cMs for Autosomal Testing Comparisons

Autosomal DNA (atDNA) is inherited from both parents. This chart shows the average estimated cMs of atDNA shared with relatives. Every child gets 50% from each parent and does not necessarily inherit 25% from each grandparent. atDNA is randomly shuffled up in a process called recombination and the amount of atDNA is diluted with each new generation and therefore varies.
